

Communicating animal research: The importance of being open

A seminar jointly organized by Comparative Medicine, KI's Animal Welfare Body and EARA

Date: Monday, 17th of November, 13:00 – 16:30

Place: Hall Eva & George Klein, Biomedicum, Solnavägen 9

Agenda:

- | | |
|---------------|--|
| 13:00 – 13:15 | Introduction and Welcome
Prof. Anders Gustafsson |
| 13:15 – 13:30 | Changing the Narrative: EARA's Work on Promoting Openness and Trust in Animal Research
Monique Havermans |
| 13:30 – 13:45 | The KI communication department
Madeleine Svärd-Huss & Andreas Andersson |
| 13:45 – 14:15 | From transparency to trust: taking one step at a time to talk about animal research
Inês Serrenho |
| 14:15 – 14:30 | How the zebrafish core facility communicates with the public
Lars Bräutigam |
| 14:30 – 14:45 | Why are non-human primates so important for neuroscience research?
Prof. Andrea Varrone |
| 14:45 – 15:00 | Macaques – transparency and animal welfare at KI
Stina Tucker |
| 15:00 – 15:45 | Panel discussion |
| 15:45 – 16:30 | Coffee mingle and open discussion |

Further information and registration:

Please contact awb@ki.se

Register here

Limited number of seats.
First come first served.

European Animal
Research Association

Karolinska
Institutet